SUCCESS

MADE VISIBLE

While we see our country emerging from peril and proceeding towards stability, our own success this year has soared upwards in terms of membership numbers, successful events and our financial position. While the national state of things have given us a platform of uniformity and evenness, we have been able to satisfy our members and the public in all that we did during the year. Our year has added new value to our activities and has shown our members the tremendous resources and the possibilities the Institute of Chartered Professional Managers of Sri Lanka has in its membership potential. We have been encouraged during the year to think far into the horizon to seek for our members those issues that will promote their managerial capability, their intellect, and their readiness for the new environmental features which the country's progress is bringing into their lives. No doubt our members' cooperation will be a great strength to our Institute and will enable us to build our own success on the success of our nation.

Overview

Annual Report 2023-2024

The country saw an ease of life over the year. The stress and hardship of obtaining one's daily needs were gradually receding. Normalcy was on the threshold and people were beginning to return to their ways of everyday life.

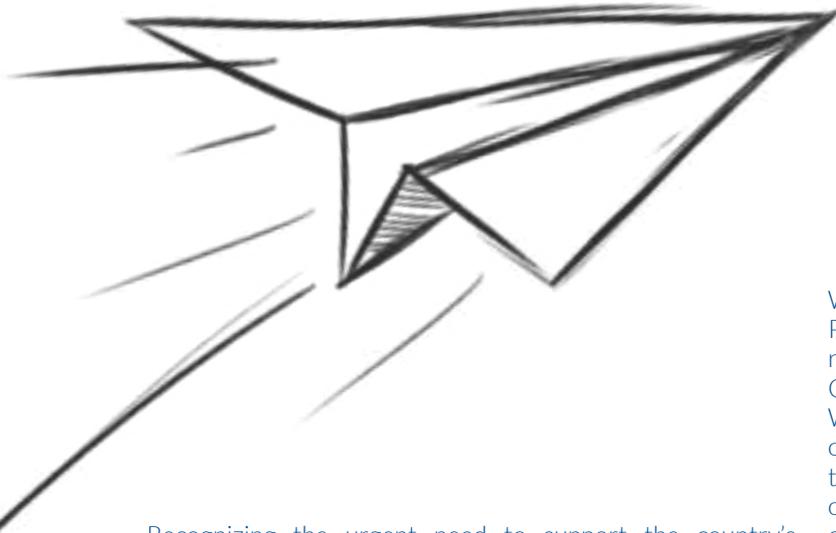

However, prices remained high and exchange rates did not show any signs of reducing. It is in this context, amidst heavy costs that CPM Sri Lanka was operating. Our income rose to 58 million, an increase of rupees 20 million. Yet because costs were high expenses for the year rose and we were not able to save much of the income. A reason for increasing costs was that over events drew more participants and we had to service larger numbers. We also uncreated staff members and also their benefits. We also increased the number of events in the Calendar.

The Institute absorbed the cost for many of our programs arranged for members and the business community such as the Contemporary Perspectives in Management Discussion Series, Workshops, Journals, Empowering Minds via Business Connect Program, Mentor Me program, CEO Compact breakfast meetings were conducted as a service to our members and to the business society.

We saw an increase in both membership enrolments and renewals, which now stand over 2000. We complement our members because they pay their dues regularly. As always, we organized programs to bring the latest information to them so as to enable them to be the best at their work. Many members make use of these opportunities to update themselves.

Our members had opportunities to meet market leaders and industry experts at our programs. This year we invited His Excellency Mizukoshi Hideaki, Ambassador of Japan in Sri Lanka, Mr. Milinda Moragoda Head of Path Finder Institution, Dr. Ananda Mallawatantri, Advisor to Government at Presidential Secretariat, Environment, Climate Change and Green Finance, Presidential Secretariat, Dr. Romesh Ranawana, Group Chief Analytics and AI Officer – Dialog Axiata PLC, Mr. Katsuki Kotaro, Minister/Deputy Head of Mission, Embassy of Japan in Sri Lanka, Mr. Sandun Hapugoda, Country Head, Sri Lanka and Maldives Mastercard for our key events.

This year we have been able to make more use of our premises in Melbourne Avenue. Our facilities have hosted a variety of events, including workshops, member felicitation ceremonies, New Year celebrations, the Annual General Meeting, and various council and committee meetings. Additionally, our venue has been the site for the judging process of the Best Management Practices Company Awards, judging process of the management research forum, International Women's Day celebrations, and the "Mentor Me" program. These activities have kept our premises bustling with activity.

Recognizing the urgent need to support the country's economic rehabilitation efforts, the Institute introduced the SME Development Program, designed to guide entrepreneurs through a proprietary model. This complimentary program served entrepreneurs from across the nation. Following an inaugural session at BMICH in Colombo 07, several coaching and mentoring sessions were conducted at our premises, benefiting 112 entrepreneurs up to the 31 March 2024 of the program. CPM Sri Lanka is aiming to support 500 SMEs through this program.

Participants gained insight into the shortcomings, weaknesses, and areas for improvement within their businesses. Through the 'Hand Holding' process, the Institute continues to provide further consultation and mentoring for the next six to nine months, ensuring ongoing support for the entrepreneurs who completed the program.

The CPM Professional Women's Chapter have shown their dedication to enhancing standards on women-related issues by facilitating discussions on parenting and the digital space, fostering young women entrepreneurs, and mentoring emerging professionals through the "Mentor Me" program.

Demonstrating our commitment to environmental sustainability, we undertook numerous green initiatives during our events this year. We used special invitation cards embedded with seeds, designed to grow into plants, despite their higher cost compared to standard invitations. At our membership convocation, we featured an arch made from discarded plastic bottles at the main entrance, incorporated natural leaves and bicycles into our decorations, and used file folders made from elephant dung.

We distributed over 1,000 special take-home gifts, namely PUNICACEAE (POMEGRANATE) plants, to the membership recipients at the convocation, C-suite participants at our CEO Compact breakfast forums, attendees of the International Women's Day Celebration, and the winning team players at our cricket tournament. Additionally, several plants were gifted to donors of our e-waste recycling project. The staff initiative of planting vegetables and fruits in the backyard garden was commendable. To further demonstrate our commitment to environmental sustainability, we have restricted the use of plastic water bottles at all our events, both in-house and externally. We also gifted eco-friendly products to all resource persons at various events, a gesture that was highly appreciated by the recipients.

We have used membership funds prudently making every rupee stretch to the maximum arranging events over the year. These have brought us closer to the members and strengthened our ties with the business community. This is an asset that cannot be measured in rupee terms. Also, some of the activities that we engaged in such as the Dry Good Donation for elderly street sweepers, Book Donation Campaign, Blood Donation Campaign, and Chickpea Dansala bring us goodwill over and beyond what can be stated in our financial statement.

OUR TRADITION OF REPORTING

We have consistently reported our activities and financial conduct with trust, truth, and sincerity. This year, there were no significant policy or financial changes. We focused on enhancing our reporting to highlight transparency and clarity, clearly indicating the management processes we adopt.

OUR COMMITMENT TO MEMBERS, STUDENTS AND THE PUBLIC

Our Governing Council takes full responsibility for all information presented in this Annual Report. KPMG Chartered Accountants has confirmed the accuracy of the accounts in this document.

Members of the Governing Council have verified all information and material issues documented here as true and accurate, impartially and dispassionately.

OUR PATH TO GROWTH

The journey that The Institute of Chartered Professional Managers of Sri Lanka (CPM Sri Lanka) has made over 15 years is impressive. Within its brief span of life, she has attracted over 3,500 members from every conceivable profession thus creating a blend of skilled practitioners. It is for this reason therefore the Institute is able to arrange a variety of programmes to service the business and the professional community. These programs serve as a wellspring of the latest and most cutting-edge insights for managers.

A key benefit for members is the availability of diverse programmes. CPM Sri Lanka therefore promotes a cross-professional culture where members of one profession establishes links with several others.

CPM Sri Lanka's international recognition extends to its active membership in the prestigious Association of Management Development Institutions in South Asia (AMDISA) and the Indian Institute of Ahmadabad (IIMA) and Management Institute of Malaysia (MIM) thereby cementing its position on the global stage.

This year we are proud to mention that our active membership has increased by over 2,000, indicating that more professionals are aware of the advantages and benefits that the Institute offers. In addition to fellowship and networking members also benefit from the latest information about many areas of knowledge that directly impinge on their work. Our professional events include conferences, workshops, lectures, best management practices company awards, seminars, book summary discussions, management quiz battle, journals, newsletter, and the research forum. Of course, one cannot take part in all programs simply because of the time constraint but members are able to choose what is relevant to them and their work when deciding what programs they will attend. We have therefore a range of events that will satisfy everybody. We urge our members to make use of these opportunities.

As we see there are many structural and administrative changes that are taking place in the country. With the adoption of IMF programs and the easing of everyday life, professionals have more time to devote to their business activities. They must also prepare themselves to be in readiness for the upcoming changes.

This year our plan is to arrange for more member-centric programs to enable them to be at the leading edge of the latest information enabling them to renew themselves and not be redundant in a fast-changing economic, financial, and operational world.

Significant Operational Increases

As a lean organization, CPM Sri Lanka conducts its operations with only 08 staff members while each one of them has a specific job description they often exceed these limits when the need arises. Thus, one can see a staff member taking on several roles. In addition, they also use minimum resources for the maximum output using as they do and recycling waste materials, using the printer sparingly and electricity and power only when they are needed. They also, in addition to all professional work, show their concern for others in several ways. When they saw that the blood bank needed donations, they rallied their members and collected 72 pints of blood. They also collected dry rations which are expensive in the current content and invited some elderly street sweepers to a function to donate their collection. Vesak is a season of giving and during this period they cook and prepare chickpeas to be given to all passers-by throughout the day. They were always cautious to use environmentally friendly recycling and natural products in their activities.

All this is done while their regular work is also taking place. This year they backboned to conduct several major events such as the Annual Convocation, Annual Management Conference, the Best Management Practices Company Awards. Those are looked forward to very eagerly by the members and the public. They also organized well attended two 'CEO Compact' events for C-suite level executives bringing dialogues on the 'Sri Lanka-India Nexus; Balancing benefits for the Island' and 'Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning; what Boards and CEOs should know'. Those who attended congratulated CPM Sri Lanka Institute for bringing them the latest information on these subjects.

The number of participant companies at the best management practices company awards increased 107% percent than the previous year. The number of membership renewals exceeded 2,000. The number of workshops increased, business connect programs, journal interviews increased. The number of papers for management research forum increased.

Despite financial drawbacks, many organizations are cutting budgets. But CPM Sri Lanka on the other hand, did not neglect the staff. Staff payments and services increased. A staff family day out was also arranged. Staff deserved the increases because they performed well. Also living expenses too rose and CPM was not blind to it. In-house, they were provided with training and development opportunities.

Continuing our initiative of introducing new events to the calendar, this year we started Contemporary Perspectives in Management Discussion Series, CEO Compact, E-Waste Recycling Drive, 'Mentor Me' program to guide emerging young professionals.

We are proud that our operational income increased by 20 million, showing that our events are able to attract the business community. Fixed Deposits were increased. Total assets were increased. However, this year our expenditure rose resulting in minimizing our balance. However, the advantage to the Institute was that we were able to provide a wider service to the public.

The staff has been encouraged to save energy whenever possible. They manage the air conditioning prudently use LED bulbs and monitor power and water usage. They keep the office green with indoor natural plants. Lemons growing in the garden are used for drinks for visitors.

We are pleased that we have been able to make the maximum use of our well-appointed premises of 3500 square feet. We encourage our members to make use of the premises in every way they think should benefit them and the Institute.

Chartered Manager Journal

February 2024 Issue

With the ever-increasing information overload governments and businesses need to adopt new methods of processing information for use in operations and economic activity. Therefore, countries are adopting digitization and digitalization in their logistics and undertakings so as to enhance speed in activity and savings in the delivery of service.

Digitization converts analog info into digital form, while digitalization transforms processes using digital tech. Digitization is about converting information, while digitalization improves processes and creates new opportunities.

Increasingly countries are adopting these processes. Thus, while a country like Singapore is far ahead in these processes, we in Sri Lanka are about to embark on them. Singapore has advanced in digital transformation and so their businesses and the workforces are equipped to handle digital changes. They have also transformed the public sector and the way the people and businesses are served.

Following such leading countries, Sri Lanka needs to develop the ability to use technology safely and ensure equal access for all. The Government is the main service provider, and the people are the consumers. New technology will enable the consumer to avail themselves of services without difficulty, when and where they want it. New processes will bring in transparency, and greater productivity while ensuring the ability of the people to send feedback. No less a person than the President himself has said that the Government plans to set up four new universities specializing in new technologies emphasizing the crucial role of science, technology, and innovation in overcoming development challenges that Sri Lanka now faces. In the February 2024 issue of the 'Chartered Manager Journal, CPM Sri Lanka brought together experts and practitioners in the area of digitalization to illuminate and discuss digital transformation and took the lead in spearheading the process for her members and the business community.

Human Capital Infrastructure & Staff Development, Commitment

Our staff

Human Capital Infrastructure & Staff Development, Commitment

CPM Sri Lanka operates with a dedicated team of just ten staff members who work together harmoniously, understanding and embracing their commitment to the organization. We foster an inclusive environment where there are no social or class distinctions among staff members. Everyone, from the office maintenance personnel to those liaising with members and students, enjoys equal social standing. Each individual is aware of their role, yet during external events, it is impossible to distinguish their specific duties.

As a gesture of appreciation for their hard work, staff outings are organized where everyone shares meals and camaraderie as equals. The working conditions in the office are satisfactory, with staff often engaging in physical exercise on the lawn behind the office to maintain their well-being. The office environment has been made welcoming and attractive, adorned with plants and pictures, creating a homely atmosphere for both staff and visitors.

Every team member takes pride in maintaining the office's appearance, participating in various tasks as needed. This collaborative approach not only strengthens team bonds but also maximizes resource efficiency. Additionally, staff members are encouraged to participate in professional development programs arranged by CPM Sri Lanka. The organization also supports staff during personal events, demonstrating a commitment to their overall well-being.

Sustainable Growth Through Environmental Stewardship, Innovation, and Resilience

Towards a Circular Economy

As global awareness of diminishing resources and the need to distribute them among a growing population increases, the concept of a circular economy has gained prominence. Our world is endowed with both natural and human capital.

Natural capital encompasses the world's stocks of natural assets, including geology, soil, air, water, and all living organisms. Human capital refers to the human resources that harvest and prepare these natural assets for use.

Human Capital Interaction at CPM Sri Lanka

CPM Sri Lanka is dedicated to the judicious use of all resources. We encourage our members to rethink the throwaway society that emerged in the last century and to embrace a circular economy where reuse and recycling are fundamental and foundational to development.

In this year's annual report, we proudly highlight our commitment to Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) initiatives. Our sustainability efforts include addressing polyethylene waste through innovative projects, such as event invitations embedded with plant seeds, distributing plants at events as take-home gifts, using recycled paper folders made from elephant dung, and collecting e-waste from members and their organizations. We have produced engaging videos and informational materials to raise awareness about the environmental impact of plastic waste and the importance of responsible waste management. Additionally, we have given plants as tokens of appreciation and gifts for our resource persons and participants, promoting green practices and fostering a culture of environmental responsibility. These actions reflect our dedication to positively impacting the planet while achieving our ESG goals with purpose and determination.

Commitment to Natural Capital Management

At CPM Sri Lanka, we take natural capital management seriously, aligning our strategies with green concepts to enhance the environment. Our digital transformation efforts aim to eliminate unnecessary paperwork, promoting environmental well-being by saving storage space, time, and money through an agile system. A recent study indicates that reducing font size by one point on printed documents could save up to 20.7 billion sheets of paper annually. As a responsible institute, we encourage our professionals to use smaller fonts and limit printouts, contributing to reforestation efforts.

By adhering to the three fundamental principles of environmental protection, we improve the environmental impact of our daily operations. Our staff views this as a valuable way to join the eco-conscious revolution. Reducing our carbon footprint, striving for net-zero emissions, and protecting natural resources through recycling attract new environmentally minded members.

Combating Marine Pollution

Each year, tons of polythene and plastic waste litter our coastline, creating oxygen-depleted dead zones in the ocean. At CPM Sri Lanka, we are committed to resisting marine pollution by refusing to dispose of waste in the ocean and setting an example for accountable organizations. Our themes, such as 'Save the Nature' and 'Protect the Oceans; Our Source of Oxygen,' used in annual convocations, convey these critical messages and inspire more individuals to join our cause.

Professionals Leading Environmental Sustainability and Innovative Green Practices

The theme of our 2024 Annual Convocation, 'Professionals Leading Environmental Sustainability and Innovative Green Practices,' serves as a guiding light for harmonious coexistence with our planet. Amid pressing ecological challenges, it underscores the urgent need for innovative, eco-conscious solutions. This theme calls upon us to reimagine our relationship with the environment, advocating for sustainable practices that benefit both nature and society. Through this theme, we embark on a journey of discovery, exploration, and action, redefining our role as stewards of the Earth and championing strategies to preserve our planet's resources for future generations.

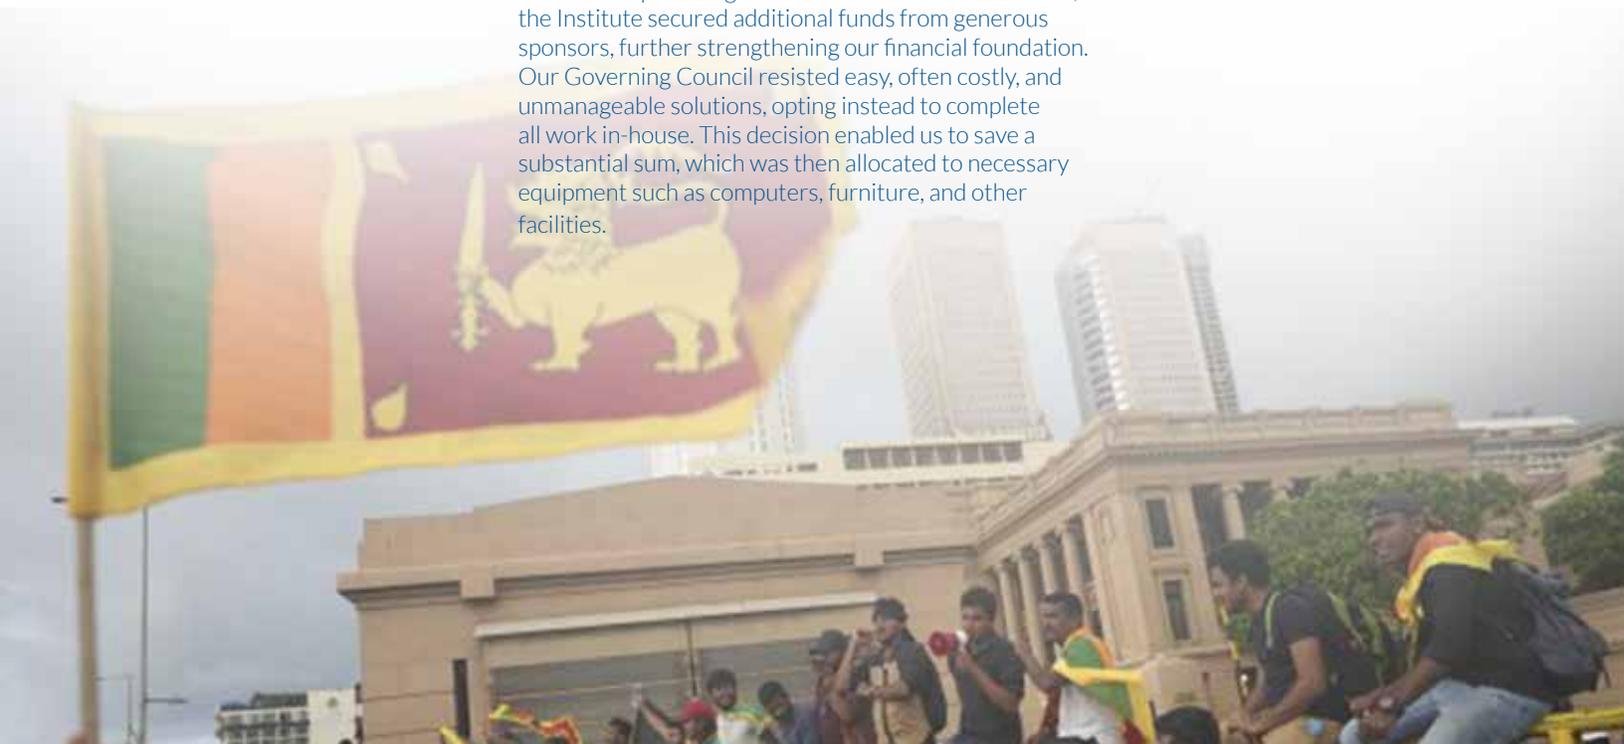

Consistency During Financial and Political Stress

Our annual reports reveal a trend of consistency even before the unprecedented calamities that affected the country. Our Governing Council and members faced these challenges with equanimity and calm, ensuring the uninterrupted continuation of all our programs, despite occasionally adjusting our services to members, students, and corporate partners.

Despite financial contractions, our members continued to support the Institute through their annual subscriptions, ensuring that we were not handicapped for funds. In fact, our financial income improved by 67.03%, while expenses increased by 57.66% compared to the previous financial year. This prudent financial management resulted in a steady and consistent performance with a slight improvement in our surplus.

While financial metrics are not the sole indicators of success, the active participation of our members in all our programs, coupled with our ability to deliver the latest information to keep them at the cutting edge of knowledge, has been a hallmark of the Institute's progress.

To continue providing excellent service to our members, the Institute secured additional funds from generous sponsors, further strengthening our financial foundation. Our Governing Council resisted easy, often costly, and unmanageable solutions, opting instead to complete all work in-house. This decision enabled us to save a substantial sum, which was then allocated to necessary equipment such as computers, furniture, and other facilities.

Ten-year summary and Financial Growth

An analysis of the financial statements over the past decade reveals that CPM Sri Lanka has achieved steady progress despite challenges such as high inflation and significant exchange rate fluctuations. A primary pillar of our financial strength has been the consistent contributions from our members. This support has enabled us to maintain a nominal annual renewal fee. Additionally, our dynamic and robust programs have attracted an increasing number of business community members, resulting in higher membership and increased revenue.

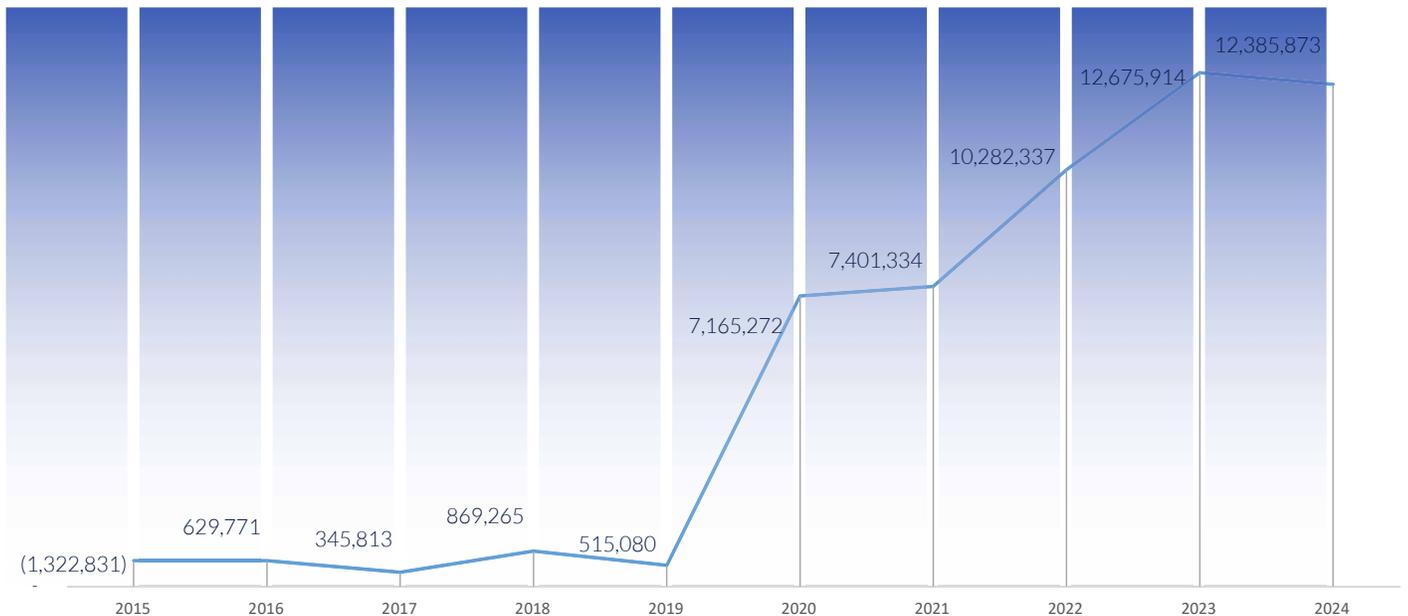

Our financial performance over the past ten years has been marked by a steady and impressive Growth trajectory, as evidenced by our surplus in the Statement of Income and Expenditure. Beginning with a surplus of Rs. (-1,322,831) in 2015, we have consistently exceeded expectations, with surpluses of Rs. 629,771 in 2016, Rs. 345,813 in 2017, Rs. 869,265 in 2018, Rs. 515,080 in 2019, Rs. 7,165,272 in 2020, Rs. 7,401,334 in 2021, Rs. 10,282,337 in 2022, Rs. 12,675,914 in 2023, and Rs. 12,385,873 in 2024.

This upward trend reflects our organization's robust financial management, strategic planning, and dedication to achieving sustainable outcomes. We remain committed to responsible financial stewardship, which will enable us to further our mission and continue making a meaningful difference in the years ahead.

Our expenditure has grown in line with inflation. Notably, there were no extraordinary items of expenditure. In the 2023-2024 fiscal year, our expenses for the annual conference and the Best Management Practices Company Awards rose due to a significant increase in participation and company entries. Furthermore, we organized two 'CEO Compact' breakfast meetings, engaging 275 C-suite level executives. These meetings, along with three major events, added significant value and visibility to our initiatives.

At CPM Sri Lanka, we pride ourselves on managing our events internally, with the exception of necessary technical assistance. This approach has resulted in substantial cost savings. We extend our gratitude to our dedicated staff for their willingness to undertake additional responsibilities, ensuring the success of our events while maintaining cost efficiency.
